Course Description: This course is designed to provide the pre-service teacher candidate an opportunity to put into practice the skills competencies, and dispositions of effective teaching of young children. It is the culmination of all professional education and curriculum content courses which comprise the Early Childhood Education Program.

Course Goals: Student teaching is an important aspect in the assessment of the student's development of appropriate practices. Through on-site observation of the student teacher in an early childhood setting, the college supervisor is able to assess the student's competence in all areas of his/her work with young children. The Cooperating Teacher serves as a model and guides the student through day-to-day planning, curriculum development, and implementation of developmentally appropriate practices. The College Supervisor and Cooperating Teacher work together to ensure continued development of the teacher candidate's knowledge, skills, attitudes, and dispositions suitable for teaching young children.

Course Objectives:

1. Plan and implement effective, developmentally appropriate lesson plans that support student learning for both individual students and groups of students.
2. Establish environments for students that support development and learning.
3. Communicate and network with family members of all classroom students to support student development and learning.
4. Analyze what guidance/disciplinary techniques work best, and state why.

Required Text/Materials

- Machado, Jeanne & Botnarescue, Helen (2008). Student Teaching: Early Childhood Practicum Guide (6th Ed.). Clifton, NJ: Thomson Delmar Learning,
- TMCC Kindergarten Student Teaching Handbook, TMCC Teacher Education Department

Methods of instruction: Includes direct instruction, small group activities, student presentations and field-based applications with Pre-K classrooms.

Cultural Content: The culture of the Turtle Mountain Bank of Chippewa will be integrated throughout this course to enhance the awareness of the cultural and social heritage of the Anishinabe people.

Your Rights and Responsibilities: If you have special learning or physical disabilities (formally diagnosed), you have legal rights to course modification. Please identify yourself to the professor so that he/she may assist you with your course progress.

Attendance/Class Participation: Active participation of all activities, observations and instruction of young children is required; therefore, attendance is very important and will count toward final course grades. Unexcused absences will be subject to a loss of (10) grade points for each unexcused absence. If you are ill or have a family emergency, please notify the instructor by email.

Performance Assessments: students are expected to complete all class readings prior to each class session so as to engage in active dialogue, sharing of ideas and reflection to engage in productive learning. Students are expected to integrate course readings and class information into their written assignments to demonstrate knowledge of content matter. An evaluation of your papers, assignments, projects, in-class discussions, small and large group presentations, and participation will determine whether or not you've met the instructional objectives for the course. Scholarship, initiative, cooperation, attitude and improvement will also be taken into consideration.

Statement of Academic Honesty: Scholastic honesty is expected. Dishonesty includes cheating, plagiarism, and collusion. Students are expected to do individual work unless directed by a project and or permission is given. If dishonesty is found, the student will be reported to the Academic Dean.
